

objective

Create advertisements you tell your friends about, design magazine pages you want made into posters, and to never, ever stop educating myself.

experience

Rhonda Zayas. June '09-Present

Tempe, Arizona. Having worked together on projects in the past, Rhonda (freelance graphic designer) is familiar with my work. Currently, I am working on archiving her previous works and making her a web-based and hard-copy portfolio. After this is complete, my next task will be to "brand" her as a designer.

Copper State Horse Show. July '08-As Needed

Scottsdale, Arizona. My first graphic design assignment outside of a classroom. This involved creating flyers for paper and email, business cards, logos, class lists, and revising posters for a series of horse shows.

Ritz Camera. August '05-February '06, & June '08-September '08

Paradise Valley and Scottsdale locations, Arizona. Working with camera sales and printing was one of the most beneficial things I've done for myself -- My passion combined with helping others find the right product for them was tremendously rewarding. I ended up leaving in order to experiment in other fields, and returned several years later to help the new staff and become acquainted with the new, exciting equipment.

Yearbook Committee. August '05-May '06

New School for the Arts and Academics, Tempe, Arizona. Unfortunately, my classmates chose this course with the intention of cruising the web all class period. With all of their determination, they succeeded, and refused to be much of any help. Due to this, the completed yearbook was the direct result of my genuine interest in learning about publishing and design and my instructor's knowledge and creative skill. Even now, people tell me that was the most successful yearbook had seen throughout their four years at the school.
